

For the prevention and cure of BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS is recommended Hahn's Anti-Bilious Pills
THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than can be asserted of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.
It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in casestemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.
They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

that no difficulty arises in taking it.

"This night—and nature sinks to sleep; Ten thousand stars their vigils keep;
The silver-mooned moon on high Irradiates the azure sky; Ten thousand beauties deck the ground,
And zephyrs breathe perfume around.

Al! if you can, ye feeling, tell What raptures sweet invest the spell Where spheres of spheres sublimely

And move in harmony divine;
And as they move, though silent, cry,

LETTERS FROM ASIA.

Extracts from a very interesting series of letters, written in Asia, and recently published in the Boston Patriot.

Every office under government in Turkey, is sold to the highest bidder, and the persons who obtain them, extort from the people, in a ratio fully equal to the amount they pay.

About six weeks previous to our arrival, the Turkish fleet from Constantinople entered the port of Smyrna, commanded by the captain Pacha, who observed to the governor, on being visited, that understanding he was a good sportsman, he had brought him an elegant fowling piece, and requested he would call on the following morning and accompany him to shoot.

Blinded by the present of the gun, and not dreaming of treachery, he obeyed the order, but instead of being received with kindness, he was conveyed on board a frigate, which immediately got under way, and on anchoring below the castle, his head was struck off and sent by an express to adorn the gate of the seraglio at Constantinople.

Thus ended the life of this man, after having held the government of Smyrna upwards of twenty years against the will of the grand signior, who had tried many methods to displace him. Governors were appointed without effect, as they dared not face his Janissaries; and when a greater man than himself arrived at Smyrna, he had been in the habit of retiring to one of his country seats and leaving his town residence to his superior in power—but in this instance he was deceived—for having shown the captain Pacha much kindness on the occasion, he thought he might depend on his friendship.

He was charged with being excessively cruel to the subjects of the empire—this is true—for whenever he took a fancy to the wife, sister or daughter of a poor Greek, or Armenian, he would order her without any ceremony to his harem; and if the relatives complained, they were almost sure of receiving the bastinado.

Another charge against him, which went far to promote his destruction, was, that he was a Christian! Certain it is, he was very kind to the Franks, and very fond of their society, but the only visible mark of his conversion, was, his getting drunk on wine whenever he could persuade any of the Europeans to join him, at which time he would be very familiar, allowing them to pull the pipe out of his mouth and replace it at pleasure.

Agreeably to the custom of all those holding lucrative offices under the government, he was at a great expense to support apies at the Porte, and was regularly informed of every circumstance that transpired, by their means—so vigilant were they, that although the Grand Signior had dispatched many francs to have him beheaded, he always was fortunate enough to escape before they had an opportunity of putting any of them in execution.

His death, which may be considered a natural one to great men in Turkey, caused no disturbance in the city. The Franks regretted his decease—the residence of the inhabitants rejoiced at it. His successor, however, brings to my mind the fable of the frog, reversed—They had a serpent, and they now have a leg.

The number of books in the libraries in France is said to be 4,000,000.

ALEXANDRIA: FRIDAY, JULY 3, 1818.

The precipitancy of editor, paragraphist, and most of those who can gain to their writings access to the public prints, would be a most dangerous evil, if it were not that like many others of the evils of life, it brings its own cure along with it: in the absence of these evils, the privileges, and by the frequent detection of its rashness and error, it has so impaired the credit of that department of the press that few intelligent persons are materially affected in their opinions by the puerile rhetoric or the coarse of the public journals.

The dearth of matter, and the lamentable avidity of the reading multitude, for something new, and if possible, something marvellous, in the political world, make the task of periodical supply too heavy at times, and reduce our public caterers to great difficulties—so that like the keepers of boarding houses and heads of families in Washington and Georgetown, while the congressional gourmands are there, devouring the provisions of the land, they are fain to take up with any trash that comes to market, and when they have it, to make the most of it, in order, somehow or other, to allay the voracious appetites of their customers: and as to the manner of cooking it—God bless the mark!—why it is often such, that the reader as well as the caterer is compelled to exclaim with the old proverb, "well, God sends meat, but surely it must be the devil himself that sends cooks." In the gratification of this rabid hunger—this rabid canine, the inconsistencies and contradictions which deface our public intelligence would be extremely ridiculous, if they were not mischievous and derogatory to character. As suits the various humor, splanetic whims, malicious designs, party purposes, and personal animosities of that rascally headed monster the periodical press, the same man is applauded and maligned, anathematized and deified, hailed as a savior, and denounced as a murderer, sometimes by the same scribbles on different occasions—sometimes by different scribbles on the very same occasion: now sainted for some deed upon which silence would be kindness—and now held forth as a deserving candidate for the gallows in consequence of some act for which hecatombs would be an inadequate reward from his country.

This is the result of one time of rashness and precipitancy—at another of evil intentions—and at others of both united.
Sometimes too, we are persuaded, of an over-heated impetuous philanthropy. To this last source we ascribe some severe condemns on certain prominent acts of general Jackson—once trumpeted as the savior of America—of which, be the motive for condemning them what it may, this is certain, that the circumstances were not, and even yet are not sufficiently known to warrant any man in pronouncing a judgment on their propriety or injustice. Vain it is one of the noblest fictions that ever poet conceived, describing the judges of hell, represents one of them as first passing sentence, and then examining into the quality of the offence. This is regarded by all critics of a master-piece of judgment in the divine Mantuan, as more strongly than any thing else could, exemplifying infernal wickedness and injustice; and yet of that complexion exactly is the conduct of our public journals, when they circulate through the union an unfounded sentence of condemnation on the public acts of our leading men—of them may be said as of Rhadamanthus, "castigate, multique."

One who had not well studied this feature in the conduct of the public press, would be at a loss to account for the seeming apathy observable in certain of our journals, upon the measures lately pursued with respect to the Floridas. A stranger might imagine that this was the first time on which our relations with the government of Spain had been before the public—that the years of vain solicitation which our government has patiently gone through, and the various equivocations so impudently and artfully practiced to evade our just demands had never been heard, or were by some miracle forgotten by the papers. That the most powerful state paper the parting letter of Mr. Adams to the cavalier Don Onís, had never been read, or had made no impression—and that the conduct of Spain had never excited any angry feelings in the public mind. But immediately upon the arrival of the Washington, a cloud of oblation has been cast by providence over the minds of our people, they cannot have lost sight, we will not say merely of the multiplied, reiterated wrongs heaped on upon this republic by Spain, but of the universal indignation which for the last year, and particularly during the last session of congress agitated all people, and filled the mouths of the loud bubblers of malecontent with invective against the tardiness of the president in falling upon Spain. "With wings as swift as meditation, or the thoughts of love," Mr. Clay and Mr. Tremble, and Mister and Mister and Mister, would fain have had this government fly to its revenge —and the name of Ferdinand, be gilded with all the tints of Billingsgate, was relied over and over the floor of congress.
Even Mr. Adams's expression in his letter, "that as thirteen years had already been exhausted in soliciting justice at the hands of Spain, an extension of our patience a little farther could be no great loss," was sneered at by Mr.
Clay in congress, with a biting sarcasm against our cabinet, and was tossed about from paper to paper in Kentucky, to render the conduct of our executive suspected and unpopular. That Mr. Monroe did not at once draw the tumpkin from his artillery and commence a heavy fire on Spain, in favor of the Spanish patriots, was denounced as a most gross failure of duty, even on the floor of congress, and in newspapers, and in that great, solemn and decorous part of our political liturgy, the tavern taunts of our self-dramas, and the repeated "three times three" of our sober patriots, in their midnight devotions. And all for what? Why for a strange people, of whom the most sanguine among us hope much more than we really believe. And now, when the obstinate injustice and insolence of Spain has placed us in that very situation which those gentlemen wished, with the advantage of right and justice on our side, in a cause in which we can appeal with confidence to the Lord of hosts for his protection and aid, behold they grow quite cool, and as if nauseated with the smack of the washing down of the tarts, and disgusted with the smell of the dregs of the wine and the midnight lamp, they turn upon their heel, and prefer clearing their palates and clearing their smoky whistles with reading to each other the animal versions of the London scribbles upon the course pursued by our government, to an honest assertion of their consistency by approving what has taken place. As if the whole was vitiated and rendered impalpable to their moral taste by its justice and expediency—and had lost all its reliability for them, when dashed up without the piquant spice of Quixotic driveling folly, and gross national aggression and wrong.

We understand that the commissioners appointed under a resolution of the last session of Congress, to select the sites for two naval depots, have so far completed the general examination of the waters of the Chesapeake Bay as to enable them to determine the river which should be chosen for that purpose; but they have decided on a more minute survey before the particular spot can be ascertained, and on which their estimates may be founded.

From the New York Evening Post.
TO FARMERS AND GARDENERS.

And particularly to those gentlemen who have written to me on the subject of the Ruta Baga cultivation.

Hydra Park, Long Island.
21st June, 1818.

I have now lying on the table before me, a pile of letters, many of which contain Bank notes. Some of the letters contain orders for seed; others for my little book on the subject of the Ruta Baga; others for both; and others express a desire to have information on the subject of the culture. The dates of these letters show the wide extent of the circulation of the knowledge of the principal facts, which I have before stated in the public prints, and the language of the letters show the very great interest which these facts have excited, while it is very pleasing to myself.

But it being literally impossible for me in due time to answer all these letters; it being also impossible for me to comply in time, with the requests of my several correspondents, I beg leave to give this one general answer through the public prints.

To those gentlemen who have written for seed, I have to say, that in all cases, where I can do it, I will fully comply with their request; but, that in every case, I will send them a small quantity of seed in a post letter; and this I shall do, whether I have received money or not. Because I well know how anxious men are upon such subjects, and because I wish very much, that numerous persons may (though upon a small scale) have an early opportunity of being convinced upon a subject of such great and universal interest. Where a pound or more of seed has been ordered, and the money inclosed, the seed will be sent, that in the meanwhile I will ship their letters, and that the seed, if it should be too late for this year, shall be sent to them very early next winter; when I am sure of receiving a large supply from plants selected and now growing on my farm in Hampshire, and which I wrote home to be planted for this very purpose so long ago as September last, well knowing what effect my actual experiments and undeniable facts would produce in this country.

As to my little book, which is the first part of three, the whole entitled "a year's residence in the United States," it contains every thing which I know relative to the culture and preservation and mode of using the RUTA BAGA, or Roman turnip. I have endeavored to make the matter as plain as possible. Those gentlemen who have done me the very flattering honor to ask for instructions, will find in the little book an answer to all their questions; and they will also find every possible question on the subject anticipated. To me, who have no trading connections in America, it is not easy to find the means of depositing this book, in a short time, in so many places as I could wish. But I have caused a good number of copies to be sent to the care of Mr. John Morgan, of Philadelphia, who will take care that they are offered for sale in that city; and in order that book-sellers may in every part of the country, without risk, be able to procure the book, I have by public advertisement offered them, three Mr. ANDERMAN, No. 62, Barclaystreet, New York, at the price of ten copies for six dollars and a half.

There is one point, however, as to instructions, which I think it necessary to touch upon here. I perceive that many applicants for seed live in Virginia. Now as to the time of sowing, it must be very different from any time on Long Island!
The Ruta Baga plant, though sown here properly about the first of July, does not make any very great progress in point of growth till the longer and cooler nights come, and the heavy dews in September.
October gives it three fourths of its whole size. So that, I should think, that the second week in July would be quite early enough for Pennsylvania, and the first week in August early enough for Virginia.
This is very material; for, if the young and tender plants be too much scorched by the heat, they may not so easily recover. It is the long and fine autumn that does the business in this culture: the warm sun during the day, and the heavy dews by night. The later the Autumn ends, the later the sowing may take place.

To those gentlemen, who may buy the seed, without seeing the little book, I beg leave to observe, that to have any thing worth having, the ground must be clean, the plants put at large distances at an early age, good and deep plowing or ploughing between; for, I hold out no hope to those who throw seed into the ground and then leave the work to nature, which, according to an impartial part, gives the preference to the weeds, which, as we all know are the pre-occupants of every soil. As to the inducement to cultivate this root in America, the idea is by no means new to me. A few years ago, in walking with Mr. RICHARD HARRISMAN, an excellent gentleman of Hampshire, over one of his fields, I observed to him what a pity it was that our cultivation of this root was not practised in America. I said, it would double the produce of the farm there. "I'll write a little book and send it to them," said L. Soon afterwards, the war being over, I laid the plan of doing it; and actually had the little book printed and sent it out to my friend, Mr.
JOHN MORGAN, of Philadelphia. Political events of great interest arose, however, and took up all my time. When I was coming out last year, I brought a little Ruta Baga seed. I had the little bag (only a few pounds) in my hand, one day, in the cabin of the ship, and remember saying to Mr. ARNOLD, a fellow passenger: "I shall be deceived, if this seed does not, in its spread, somewhat resemble the mustard seed mentioned in the scripture."

Thus far, I have not been deceived. And, indeed, the facts of my actual doing, and of the truth of which facts I have taken care that there shall be no doubt, are so striking, that prejudice stands not a moment before them. Rich as England is in mines, this one root is of more value to her than all her mines under ground.
To it she owes a great part of her food, her hides and her wool. But, it is valuable in England, where there are few farmers with a woodland, and grazing lands for cattle in summer, and which are of little value for any other purpose, what must it be here? Upon this place, for instance, where I am—the woods and uncultivated lands will carry very well two hundred sheep and thirty head of horned cattle with fifty or sixty pigs, along from the first week in June to the end of October.
What am I to do with them then? My land will not sustain a tenth part of the number of them, if I use a few acres of land, and a very few can raise enough to fatten the cattle and sheep, to half-fatten the pigs, and to keep well till June again all I do not wish to fatten, what a profit is here! and what riches in the measure for the next year!

Cabbages, full as easily raised as the Ruta Baga, are hardly of less importance, where the summer feed is scanty in quantity. The produce is large, the quality excellent, the cultivation easy. A few acres will keep a large stock from July to January, if the sowings and plantings and the sorts be when and what they ought to be. I have now eleven sorts of cabbages which will be ready to transplant in ten days. Some of them will have completed their growth by the first week in August, and some not till November; and I have cabbages which will be fit to give to pigs, loaded and white and hard, in about ten days time. It is very little ground that is required for these purposes, and nothing very expensive in the way of labour. The great requisites are care, attention, vigilance; and, without these, who can expect to succeed in any thing?

Not in the white turnip to be despised.
People seem not to know, that often and sheep are fattened upon these in England, and that too in prodigious numbers, and to great perfection. But, then, these words "white turnip" are applied to the whole race. There are ten different sorts, very distinct. And, besides, a turnip, that it weighs only a lb, instead of from six to ten lbs, it will a turnip; but I can assure the reader that one of ten lbs has more nutritive matter in it than thirty of one lb each. There may be cases, when this sort of root may be very serviceable. It can be sown a full month later than the Ruta Baga. And that it is not a despicable thing, the reader will know when I tell him, that I once saw 800 sheep and lambs all in one field of fifteen acres of white turnips, where they had been living for more than 2 months.
It was February. The field had been legated by a flock of Somersetshire ewes and their lambs, the latter destined for the London market at Easter. These were followed on the same ground by South Down barren ewes fattening. The third and last lot was for South Down ewes which were lambing. There were separations by hurdles to keep the flock distinct.
And this was all even up and the field rich as a garden. This, which was on the farm of a Mr. Milward, at Titch-field, was, as far as I can recollect, the finest sight of the kind I ever saw; but, supposing approaching it, is generally to be seen in England. And, though the turnips must be stacked here, I see very little inconvenience in that—the only precaution is, to give to the fatteners, and to the sheep in wet weather, a little hay along with their turnips, in order to prevent fluxity too great.

With these assurances, and with a strong desire to promote the interests of agriculture and gardening in America, I have taken an early morning walk for my supply of good and true seeds of every kind that I think will be useful; and should return home before their arrival, my friend Mr. John Morgan, who chiefly interested in this respect. To much of one's self, is not very pleasing, as marks of my diligence and this way, there now exists in Hampshire a most beautiful plantation of trees and shrubs imported by me from Pennsylvania.

While in Pennsylvania, I had the pleasure to see flourishing and lofty trees and others of the finest sorts out from Hampshire by me, after my return to England. I this year imported 400 peach trees, nectarines, apples, &c. of sorts which I knew good. They were unfortunately perished the Bacchus, a London ship, instead of being, as I wished sent to New York. They lay five months on board.
They served only to make a fire or perished, they would in a few have stocked the whole country. What I remain another year or not, I not abandon this project.

With the exception of the treatment experienced from the Assembly of Pen-sylvania, or rather, from a part of have met, in this country, with themselves to be pleased with and to be of use; and though interest will, in affair of seeds, be also a motive to action, I know not in what way, more effectually and more honorably than in this way, I can show my gratitude to the country.

With the exception of the treatment I experienced from the Assembly of Pennsylvania, or rather, from a part of it, I have met, in this country, with every thing to be pleased with and to be grateful for; and though interest will, in the affair of seeds, be also a motive to exertion, I know not in what way, more effectually and more honorably than in this way, I can show my gratitude towards the country.

50 Dollars Reward.
RAN AWAY from the subscriber, about the 1st of June, a mulatto woman, by the name of LETITIA. She is about 25 or 26 years old; has the hair and complexion of an Indian; rather slender made, and about 5 feet 6 inches high. She has a remarkable cowlick in the front of her hair, which is very coarse though not very long. She has also on the side of her neck a mark of a much lighter color than the surrounding parts.
Her husband is a mulatto man, the property of Daniel M'Chichestery, by whose persuasion I have reason to believe she was induced to elope, and by whom, or some of his connexions, I have reason to think she is still harbored.
I will give the above Reward to any one who will deliver her to me or secure her in Jail, so that I get her again. Her clothing cannot be described, as she had a variety.

Dr. Thomson's System of Chemistry.
IN FOUR VOLUMES OCTAVO.
THE preceding edition of Dr. Thomson's Chemistry, had acquired so much reputation both in England and upon the continent of Europe, that a new edition, comprising the new facts with which the science had been enriched, and the new views of the subject which extended knowledge had suggested as indispensable, was eagerly looked for by the scientific world. A new edition has accordingly appeared, wherein the former edition of five volumes has been condensed into four.
All the new discoveries, and all the new theories of Chemical Phenomena, have been considered and embraced in the present improved edition: so that it is indispensable to the chemical student, as presenting the only condensed view of the changes and alterations in chemical doctrine, which the discoveries of the last ten years have suggested. No apology therefore can be necessary for reprinting such a book in this country; for the press does not furnish a substitute for it. But, there is so much theoretical suggestion—so much abstract calculation—so much fact of dubious authority—and so much dubious validity—that notes and illustrations are absolutely necessary, not merely to render the book more useful, but more intelligible.
Under these impressions, I thought fit to write notes in illustration (and sometimes in contradiction) of the work itself, rather than to make any abridgement of it. Those who wish to know the modern views of chemical science, must peruse it; and to very many who will be anxious to study it, elucidation will be necessary. I have endeavored to supply these, to the best of my ability; regardless whether my own opinions are in dissonance or coincidence with those of any author; leaving to the reader to decide between us.

The work will be published, with notes and illustrations, in four volumes 8vo.
THOMAS COOPER, M. D.

James Kennedy & Son,
RESPECTFULLY inform the public that they have just received from LEE'S MEDICINE STORE, No. 46, Maiden lane, New-York a fresh supply of the following valuable MEDICINES:

Hamilton's Worm destroying Lozenges.
Which have within sixteen years past cured an immense number of persons of both sexes of every age and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from WORMS, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of as operating with violence; on the contrary a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent & is so mild in its operation that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old should no worms exist in the body; but will without pain or gripping cleanse the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humors and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

Description of Worms, and the symptoms by which they are known.
Worms which infest the human body are chiefly of four kinds viz.—The Terebrator or large round worm; the Ascarides or small maw-worm; the Ascariæ or short flat white worm; and lastly, the Tænia or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food and sometimes voracious; purging with slimy and fetid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; pains in the head and thighs and lowness of spirits; slow fever with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent the vomiting and purging of children—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number who in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

The Restorative Powder for the Teeth and Gums.

For the prevention and cure of BILIOUS and MALIGNANT FEVERS is recommended HARRIS' ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS
THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.
It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of these diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in case esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age. They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.
